Keen John and Martha McGinnis have written a book which taps into the heart of spirituality across religions and across cultures --- to the human spirit itself. This spirit is brought to life through the remarkable and mysterious readings of psychic medium extraordinaire, Martha McGinnis. As the author's bio says about John McGinnis, he is a retired lawyer who transcribes Martha's words as they come forth directly from the Spirit World. "New Heaven, New Earth" attempts, and I believe succeeds, in lifting the veil between heaven and earth, and between physical and spiritual existence. The blissful conversations that Martha has with great figures in our past bring forth a sense of goodness and purity which is surely an expression of the divine, and of the eternal. In "New Heaven, New Earth" all things are possible, and there is a powerfully convincing sense of an eternal purpose that touches, guides, and redeems all things human. Martha McGinnis has the uncanny gift of contacting the Spirit, and John and Martha McGinnis have the extraordinary ability to make this contact known to us through their writing. I found the conversation with John Lennon utterly delightful. I think the one word that can be used for all the conversations Martha has with these luminaries is "reassuring." Let me add another word to that: "deeply reassuring." What could be more reassuring than the sharing of a very believable and genuine conversation with "God the Father, Mother and Child"? WOW! Buy this book now, and be deeply reassured! Raymond Keen - author of "Love Poems for Cannibals"

Kurzbeschreibung New Heaven, New Earth contains more spiritual readings from extraordinary psychic medium Martha McGinnis. Each chapter of this book was proposed by spirit guides to address the subject of innovation in the world. The book begins with an overview of metaphysical reality, followed by a discussion of reciprocal healings which benefit people on earth and in heaven simultaneously. Historical figures interviewed in this volume include: Evita Peron, first lady of Argentina, John Lennon, peace advocate and music innovator, Anne Frank, author of a child's diary during the Second World War, John Coltrane, jazz legend, Richard Wagner, opera composer, Kermit Roosevelt, CIA operative in the Middle East, Harriet Beecher Stowe, abolitionist and best selling writer, Groucho Marx, leading comedian and film star, Thomas Jefferson, third American president and author of the Declaration of Independence, and Lakota Chief Red Cloud, Indian rights advocate. The volume concludes with a channeled conversation with our Creator. The psychic readings of Martha McGinnis have earned critical acclaim from scholars in many different fields of study. Duke President Richard Brodhead has called the readings a remarkable re-knowing of the past, provocative and delightful. Esalen President Gordon Wheeler has said that the readings are frankly astonishing, and a remarkable form of reflective literary criticism. Bard professor of theology Bruce Chilton calls the readings moving and encouraging accounts that are sensitive to the scholarship of our time as well as the needs of our age. Larry Dossey, MD, has stated that this book demands thoughtful consideration by anyone interested in the most complex entities we know: our own minds. Reverend Robert Thompson has observed that the readings point to the inter-spiritual truth that beats in the heart of all religious thought. Politico author Patrick Gavin, reviewing the McGinnis readings with historical icons, inquires: Who needs pollsters to gather what people are thinking when there are psychics available instead? Previous volumes of spiritual readings by Martha McGinnis are available on : Psychic Readings With The Thinkers Of Heaven, Straight Talk From Heaven, and Heaven Is Available To Help. Those books explore the nature of the afterlife and consider how men and women can improve the quality of life on earth by calling on heaven for loving assistance. The present volume takes up the urgent issue of innovation and change in the world assisted by divine inspiration.
