IlluminatingVon Ein KundeFather Barry succintly describes prayer as a personal relationship with God. This in fact is the focus of Part I of "Paying Attention to God."As we progress through the chapters, we discover the various aspects involved in developing our own relationship with our Creator. It is an eye opening experience. Upon completion of his explanation of the various stages, he proceeds to correlate prayer with personal discernment, then deals with issues of communal discernment and finally death and resurrection. At each of the stages there are explanations, which can be applied to our own prayer lives. Father Barry assists us as we learn more about the centrality of God in our prayer and how it applies to our lives.

Kurzbeschreibung Barry opens up the issue of discernment in the church in order to help people bring their actual experience of God to bear not only on their own spiritual lives, but on the whole Christian community. Der Verlag ber das Buch God wants a personal relationship with each of us. "I am convinced," says Barry, "that we encounter God in a mysterious way and that God wants a personal relationship with each of us." Helping people pay attention to these encounters is the purpose of this book.
