Typisches MnnnerthemaVon Michael PauserEs ist eine Woche her, seit ich mit John Barret Roses Buch "Those Perils...." fertig geworden bin.Ich war interessiert, ob er immer den selben Schreibstiel hat und so habe ich mir noch ein Buch bestellt : "Temper the wind " und es war viel leichter zu lesen! Es ist weder von Inhalt noch von der Sprache so anspruchsvoll wie "Perils...." Es handelt vom klassischen Mannerthema Sex Crime und lässt sich flüssig lesen. Ein Mann, Lonnie, verliebt sich ganz klassisch in eine Frau, Zoe. Aber beide weisen sehr schlechte Charakterzüge auf. Zuerst glaubt man Lonnie sei ein braver kleiner Arbeiter in einer Autowerkstatt. Doch bald entpuppt er sich zu einem äußerst skrupellosen Mann. Aber wer glaubt diese Brutalität wäre nicht zu bertreffen, der irrt, denn Zoe ist noch rücksichtsloser als Lonnie. Wetten?

Kurzbeschreibung Short assed, baby faced Lonnie, invalided out of the Lafayette Flying Corps some seven years before, is running a gas station in the hills overlooking Los Angeles. Shell shocked, alone since the death of the sister who raised him, hes a quiet feller and leads a quiet day to day life until this high powered Sheba roars into his life in a shot up Chrysler. Tall, arrogant, beautiful, with blue eyes and flaming red hair, and dressed like no twist he ever saw before, she can pour on the charm as easily as she lies, and she tells lies as fast and smooth as the dog trots. She only wants him to help rub out the gang of bootleggers who murdered her brother. Sometimes a man doesnt get a choice, not if hes the quiet sort of feller who won the Croix de Guerre for doing the impossible. In his wildest nightmares he could never have imagined the future now about to unfold before him Kurzbeschreibung Short assed, baby faced Lonnie, invalided out of the Lafayette Flying Corps some seven years before, is running a gas station in the hills overlooking Los Angeles.
