Sehr empfehlenswerte LektreVon CustomerIch kenne Graeme MacQueen als einen ernsthaften Wissenschaftler, weit entfernt von versponnener Verschwörungstheorie. Seine Erkenntnisse sind das Ergebnis einer fundierten Recherche und bieten einen interessanten Blick auf die Methoden zur Durchsetzung machtpolitischer Ziele der Bush-Administration mit seinen NeoCons in Folge der 9/11 Anschläge. In dieser Phase wurden die Grundlagen für die radikale Umgestaltung der US-amerikanischen Sicherheitsbehörden gelegt und nicht zuletzt auch der Startschuss für die unglaubliche Datensammelwut der NSA gegeben. Das erfolgreiche Zusammenwirken von parteipolitischer Propaganda und geheimdienstlichen Operationen zwecks gezielter Desinformation der amerikanischen Öffentlichkeit und zusätzlichem Druck auf den Senat (u. a. durch Bedrohung von Senatoren mit Schlüsselpositionen) hatte zur Folge, dass US-Amerika seine hart und bitter erkämpften Freiheitsrechte freiwillig über Bord geworfen hat. Darüber hinaus hat das gut inszenierte Verwirrspiel die Grundlagen für die Kriege mit Afghanistan und Irak geliefert. Die Erkenntnis, dass die 9/11 Anschläge und die Anthrax-Anschläge zweifelsohne in tatsächlicher Verbindung stehen, die Anthrax-Anschläge jedoch höchswahrscheinlich einer amerikanischen geheimdienstlichen Operation zuzuordnen sind, wirft weitere Fragen auf, die jedoch an anderer Stelle geklärt werden müssen.

Kurzbeschreibung The 2001 anthrax letter attacks in the United States killed five people and wounded dozens. They were widely blamed on extremist Muslims and their backers and used to support the invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq. They were also used to justify and hasten the passage of the USA PATRIOT Act, which was being presented to Congress just as the first anthrax victim grew ill. In October 2001, one of the hypotheses that gained ground was that of the Double Perpetrator, the claim that al-Qaeda was carrying out the attacks with the support of Iraq. Much evidence was put forth to support this Double Perpetrator hypothesis but independent scientists soon discovered that the anthrax spores came from a domestic lab in the US serving the military and intelligence communities, not from al-Qaeda or Iraq. The FBI then quickly claimed that an individual was responsible for the attacks and began noisily looking for this lone wolf. In 2008 the Bureau named Dr. Bruce Ivins of the US Army Medical Institute of Infectious Disease as the anthrax killer. Although the FBI remains committed to the Ivins hypothesis, the case has been disintegrating for the last three years. Currently, it is justly held in contempt not merely by scientists who worked with Ivins but by many journalists as well as several US senators. But this raises the question: if Ivins did not commit this crime, who did? This book presents evidence to support the following points: (a) The anthrax attacks were carried out by a group of perpetrators, not by a lone wolf. The attacks were, therefore, the result of a conspiracy by definition a plan by two or more people, made in secret and resulting in an immoral or illegal act. (b) The group that carried out this crime consisted, in whole or in part, of insiders deep within the US state apparatus. (c) These insiders were the same people who planned the 9/11 attacks (d) The anthrax attacks were meant to facilitate a seizure of power by the executive branch of government through intimidation of Congress and US civil society. They were also designed to achieve public acquiescence to and support for the redefinition of US foreign policy, replacing the Cold War with a new and aggressive global conflict framework, the Global War on Terror.

Pressestimmen "Graeme MacQueen illuminates previously hidden dimensions of the "anthrax attacks," which came right after the 9/11 attacks." David Ray Griffin, author of numerous books on the 9/11 attacks "Dr. MacQueen shows that indeed 9-11 and anthrax were connected, and that the false-flag, inside job characteristic that inexorably became part of the official version of the anthrax attacks must also apply to 9-11." Barry Kissin, American attorney and key anthrax researcher "This deeply troubling book should be read by thinking Americans, and even more so by the majority that do not." -- Denis J. Halliday, UN Assistant Secretary-General 1994-98 "Finally, a book has come out that explodes the FBI's anthrax letters case," Meryl Nass, MD, consultant on bioterrorism for the Director of National Intelligence and the World Bank "Graeme MacQueen provides abundant evidence that the anthrax attacks and the 9/11 attacks, both of which scared the American people into war, were carried out by the same people highly placed in the U.S. government." David Ray Griffin, author of The New Pearl Harbor Revisited
